The Nebraska Food Co-op currently offers a variety of services to health-conscious tourists and visitors. The center is located at 101 N 16th Street, Lincoln, NE 68501. Visitors can visit the Co-op to learn about the benefits of a healthy diet, purchase organic produce, and meet other like-minded people. The center also provides educational resources and workshops on healthy eating and lifestyle changes. The Co-op's mission is to promote the use of local, organic, and sustainable food sources to improve the health of individuals and the community as a whole.

The Co-op is open to visitors of all ages, and offers free admission. The center features a variety of exhibits and displays, including information on local food production, nutrition, and healthy lifestyle practices. Visitors can also participate in interactive activities and workshops, such as cooking classes, nutrition consultations, and gardening programs. The center is a great resource for anyone interested in improving their health and well-being through a healthy diet and lifestyle.

The Nebraska Food Co-op is a member of the International Union of Food, Agricultural, Hotel, Restaurant, and Retail Workers (UNIFAC), and is affiliated with the National Council of Cooperative Food Banks. The Co-op is a nonprofit organization supported by membership dues, voluntary contributions, and donations.

For more information about the Nebraska Food Co-op, visit their website at http://www.nebfoodcoop.org or contact them at 402-472-5145. Visitors are encouraged to visit the Co-op and learn more about the benefits of a healthy diet and lifestyle.